COTTON. During the past week the staple has declined ac in price here, while the market has been less satisfactory to both buyer and ller than any previous week of the season. Its dull, drooping condition, with the depression that has prevailed among foreign spinners and manufacturers, caused our buyers to either keep entirely out, or to take hold sparingly, and to feel indifferent about opersting ali. It is claimed by numerous dealers in the staple that the war in eastern Europe has had much to do with causing trade dulfness, and that peace between the contending powers will at an early date restore to trade its wonted activity. Whatever the cause of the prevailing duliness, or the possible antidote for its removal, there is hardly a doubt but that the future will bring some improvement. The estimated yield of the American | quiet. crop for the present season has recently been considerably enlarged, the popular figures now approximating 4,500,000 bales. The aggregate receipts of the American crop, so far this season, are within 42,000 bales of the receipts to the same date last year, while the decrease of total cotton in sight is 309,113 bales against 486,630 bales the year before and 322,067 the year before that. The statistical position of cotton continues to be strong though from Septem cotton continues to be strong, though, from appearances, there is not likely to be any alarming shortness of supply between this and next fall; hence, while an improve-ment is anticipated, no material advance likely, according to the opinion of many. and Savannah 35,000 bales; Mobile is near-

Regarding the receipts, so far this season, at the American ports, New Orleans is over 100,000 bales ahead of last year, even with last year; Galveston is over 80, 00 bales behind; here, our receipts are 27,000 short of the year before. We are 27,242 bales ahead of this date in 1875, and 36,672 ahead of 1873, also 16,018 bales ahead of The indications are that we will shorty catch up with, and go ahead of last year's ceipts. COAHOMA Co., Miss., January 25, 1878. RIVER EDITOR APPEAL—As we look upon the APPEAL as the great people's paper everywhere, we "swampers" call on it for help in behalf of those who contemplate visitting Memphis at Mardi Gras, from this section. Every year a large proportion of every packet's passengers have to set up all night, going and coming, on these Mardi Gras trips because there are more people than berths While all can't hope to get rooms, yet the ones who are too late have a right to expect a bed when they pay the same fare, and that, as in the old times, when the Commercial and Des Arc came out of White river with all the rooms full, cots should be provided in the cabin for those who do not get rooms. What was once (and may be on many boats yet) a general custom, surely can be put in practice once a year without detriment to the boats, and very much to the comfort of the passengers. By using its influence in this behalf, the APPEAL will confer a great favor on MANY SWAMPERS.
